

Business Intelligence & Reporting

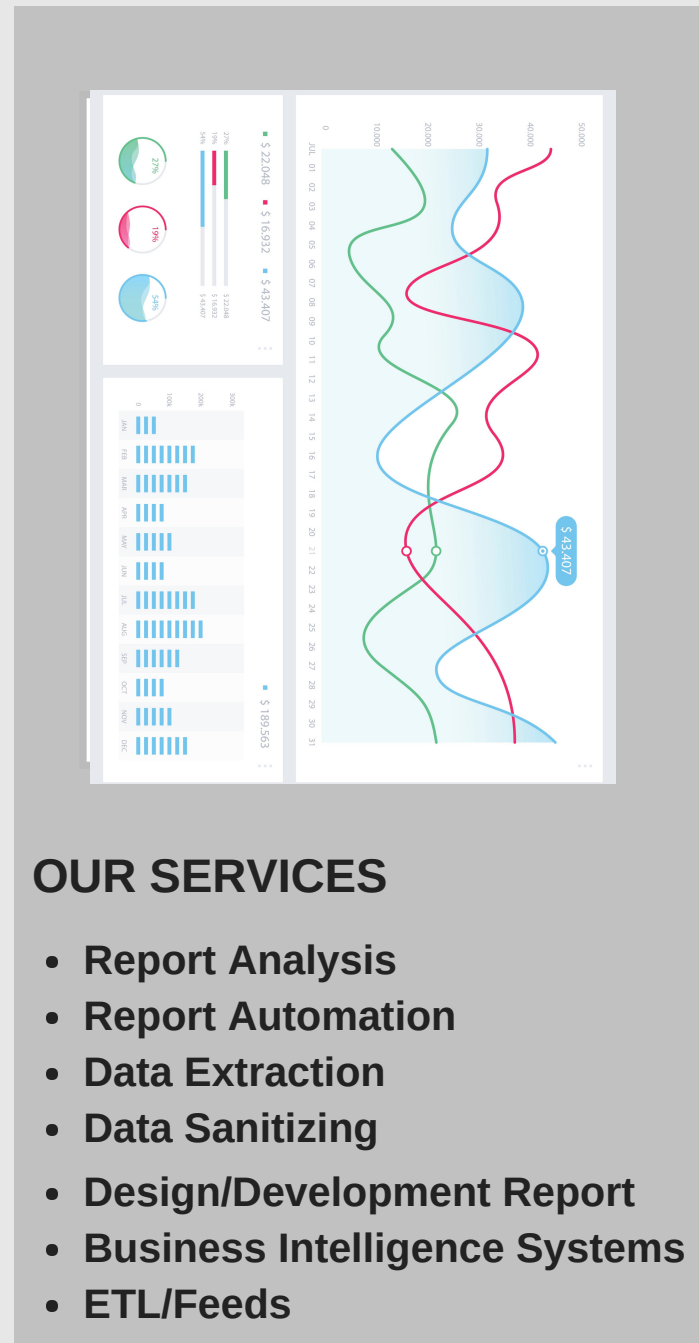

While the digitization of business has gotten rid of physical clutter, digital clutter is still thriving, and with it comes the need to develop ways to organize your data. So if you feel like your data is bogging you down instead of moving you forward, business intelligence could be a perfect solution.

If you're not sure if you need business intelligence, ask yourself these questions:

- Is your data staggered over multiple programs without any way to combine it?
- Are your reports taking too long to build or run?
- Are you at a loss for how to create reports?
- Are you confused about what reports you need?
- Is there no way for you to customize reports from your accounting package?
- Is there no report interface for clients?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, don't worry. We can help. Imperial Technology Partners specializes in creating business intelligence solutions that will make sure you're getting everything you can from the data you have in just 4 basic steps.

- 1) Identify data
- 2) Create architecture using that data
- 3) Develop tools that will improve business analytics
- 4) Deliver key data in a clear and understandable form
